

Company Name:

Meeting Date:

Attendees:

| 3-4 weeks before the meeting   |  |
|--|--|
| Secure a date/time that is convenient for all teams/individuals involved   |  |
| Send out an invitation with the date/time and an RSVP deadline   |  |
| Identify stakeholders, appoint presenters, and select a meeting facilitator  |  |
| For project kickoffs, use this time to research the project, client, or specific industry  |  |
| 2-3 weeks before the meeting   |  |
| Book a venue that fits all attendees, consider setting up additional time following the event with catered food or refreshments to allow for post-kickoff mingling and idea-sharing  |  |
| Reach out to your IT team or an IT freelancer. Consider if you will be streaming the event to other locations or will require A/V assistance for microphones, projection screens, and other equipment. Set up a digital stream of the kickoff for those who can't attend in person |  |
| Distribute a slide deck meeting agenda ( download Owl Labs' meeting agenda slides separately ) for all presenters along with any necessary tech specs or equipment  |  |
| 1-2 weeks before the meeting   |  |
| Send out reminders for completed slides to be returned   |  |
| Distribute a company-wide or team-wide call for questions to be answered during the kickoff.  Then, you can pre-select questions ahead of time and save time during the event  |  |
| Optional: Send out a question, thought, or poll ahead of time so you can discuss your team's current thoughts and address any issues as a group  |  |
| 2 days before the meeting  |  |
| Finalize the agenda, order, and itinerary of the meeting or event  Optional: hold a full run-through of the kickoff (in-person or virtually)   |  |
| Day of the meeting   |  |
| Schedule an IT run-through that morning  |  |
| Communicate with any external vendors and internal presenters to confirm attendance  |  |
| Send out reminder emails to all kickoff meeting attendees with the time and location of the event  |  |

| Make sure you have a note taker and meeting facilitator and that you record the meeting for all those who can't be in attendance  Confirm that all participants can see and hear the presentations  Identify stakeholders and their roles  Review risks, roadblocks, and past failures  For company or team kickoffs, include:  Presenter slides for agenda items with:  Role, Deliverables, Next steps  For project kickoffs, include:  Project scope  Budget  Introductions of all team members & their roles/responsibilities  Project scope  Budget  Intelline  Deliverables  Communication method  Goals  Address questions from the group and share responses from the optional group question, thought, or poll  Include a live brainstorming session for attendees to work in small groups to think of creative ways to solve company or team challenges or do an audience activity  Outline a clear communication plan for the project or team  End with clear next steps for the project or time frame (month, quarter, or year)  1-2 hours after the meeting  Send out a recording of the event along with notes and any follow-up meeting dates  Open lines of communication for any follow-up conversations or offer funch or refreshments and mingling to discuss the kickoff. This is when your team will be the most fired up and can be a creative time that's productive to harness.  1-2 weeks after the meeting  Follow up with meeting attendees via email, small group sessions, or video conferencing to review goals and timelines  Ask for feedback for future events |   |  |
|--|---|--|
| Confirm that all participants can see and hear the presentations  Identify stakeholders and their roles  Review risks, roadblocks, and past failures  For company or team kickoffs, include:  • Presenter slides for agenda items with:  • Role, Deliverables, Next steps  For project kickoffs, include:  • Introductions of all team members & their roles/responsibilities  • Project scope  • Budget  • Introductions of all team members & their roles/responsibilities  • Project scope  • Deliverables  • Communication method  • Goals  Address questions from the group and share responses from the optional group question, thought, or poll  Include a live brainstorming session for attendees to work in small groups to think of creative ways to solve company or team challenges or do an audience activity  Outline a clear communication plan for the project or team  End with clear next steps for the project or time frame (month, quarter, or year)  1-2 hours after the meeting  Send out a recording of the event along with notes and any follow-up meeting dates  Open lines of communication for any follow-up conversations or offer lunch or refreshments and mingling to discuss the kickoff. This is when your team will be the most fired up and can be a creative time that's productive to harness.  1-2 weeks after the meeting  Follow up with meeting attendees via email, small group sessions, or video conferencing to review goals and timelines  | During the meeting  |  |
| Review risks, roadblocks, and past failures  For company or team kickoffs, include:  • Presenter slides for agenda items with:  • Role, Deliverables, Next steps  For project kickoffs, include:  • Introductions of all team members & their roles/responsibilities  • Project scope  • Budget  • Timeline  • Deliverables  • Communication method  • Goals  Address questions from the group and share responses from the optional group question, thought, or poll  Include a live brainstorming session for attendees to work in small groups to think of creative ways to solve company or team challenges or do an audience activity  Outline a clear communication plan for the project or team  End with clear next steps for the project or time frame (month, quarter, or year)  1-2 hours after the meeting  Send out a recording of the event along with notes and any follow-up meeting dates  Open lines of communication for any follow-up conversations or offer lunch or refreshments and mingling to discuss the kickoff. This is when your team will be the most fired up and can be a creative time that's productive to harness.  1-2 weeks after the meeting  Follow up with meeting attendees via email, small group sessions, or video conferencing to review goals and timelines  |   |  |
| Review risks, roadblocks, and past failures  For company or team kickoffs, include:  • Presenter slides for agenda items with:  - Role, Deliverables, Next steps  For project kickoffs, include:  • Introductions of all team members & their roles/responsibilities  • Project scope  • Budget  • Timeline  • Deliverables  • Communication method  • Goals  Address questions from the group and share responses from the optional group question, thought, or poll  Include a live brainstorming session for attendees to work in small groups to think of creative ways to solve company or team challenges or do an audience activity  Outline a clear communication plan for the project or team  End with clear next steps for the project or time frame (month, quarter, or year)  1-2 hours after the meeting  Send out a recording of the event along with notes and any follow-up meeting dates  Open lines of communication for any follow-up conversations or offer lunch or refreshments and mingling to discuss the kickoff. This is when your team will be the most fired up and can be a creative time that's productive to harness.  1-2 weeks after the meeting  Follow up with meeting attendees via email, small group sessions, or video conferencing to review goals and timelines  | Confirm that all participants can see and hear the presentations  |  |
| For company or team kickoffs, include:  Presenter slides for agenda items with: Role, Deliverables, Next steps  For project kickoffs, include:  Introductions of all team members & their roles/responsibilities  Project scope Budget Timeline Deliverables Communication method Goals  Address questions from the group and share responses from the optional group question, thought, or poll  Include a live brainstorming session for attendees to work in small groups to think of creative ways to solve company or team challenges or do an audience activity  Outline a clear communication plan for the project or team  End with clear next steps for the project or time frame (month, quarter, or year)  1-2 hours after the meeting  Send out a recording of the event along with notes and any follow-up meeting dates  Open lines of communication for any follow-up conversations or offer lunch or refreshments and mingling to discuss the kickoff. This is when your team will be the most fired up and can be a creative time that's productive to harness.  1-2 weeks after the meeting  Follow up with meeting attendees via email, small group sessions, or video conferencing to review goals and timelines   | Identify stakeholders and their roles   |  |
| Presenter slides for agenda items with: Role, Deliverables, Next steps  For project kickoffs, include: Introductions of all team members & their roles/responsibilities Project scope Budget Timeline Deliverables Communication method Goals  Address questions from the group and share responses from the optional group question, thought, or poll  Include a live brainstorming session for attendees to work in small groups to think of creative ways to solve company or team challenges or do an audience activity  Outline a clear communication plan for the project or team  End with clear next steps for the project or time frame (month, quarter, or year)  1-2 hours after the meeting  Send out a recording of the event along with notes and any follow-up meeting dates  Open lines of communication for any follow-up conversations or offer lunch or refreshments and mingling to discuss the kickoff. This is when your team will be the most fired up and can be a creative time that's productive to harness.  1-2 weeks after the meeting  Follow up with meeting attendees via email, small group sessions, or video conferencing to review goals and timelines   | Review risks, roadblocks, and past failures   |  |
| Introductions of all team members & their roles/responsibilities Project scope Budget Timeline Deliverables Communication method Goals  Address questions from the group and share responses from the optional group question, thought, or poll  Include a live brainstorming session for attendees to work in small groups to think of creative ways to solve company or team challenges or do an audience activity  Outline a clear communication plan for the project or team  End with clear next steps for the project or time frame (month, quarter, or year)  1-2 hours after the meeting  Send out a recording of the event along with notes and any follow-up meeting dates  Open lines of communication for any follow-up conversations or offer lunch or refreshments and mingling to discuss the kickoff. This is when your team will be the most fired up and can be a creative time that's productive to harness.  1-2 weeks after the meeting  Follow up with meeting attendees via email, small group sessions, or video conferencing to review goals and timelines  | Presenter slides for agenda items with:   |  |
| Include a live brainstorming session for attendees to work in small groups to think of creative ways to solve company or team challenges or do an audience activity  Outline a clear communication plan for the project or team  End with clear next steps for the project or time frame (month, quarter, or year)  1-2 hours after the meeting  Send out a recording of the event along with notes and any follow-up meeting dates  Open lines of communication for any follow-up conversations or offer lunch or refreshments and mingling to discuss the kickoff. This is when your team will be the most fired up and can be a creative time that's productive to harness.  1-2 weeks after the meeting  Follow up with meeting attendees via email, small group sessions, or video conferencing to review goals and timelines   | <ul> <li>Introductions of all team members &amp; their roles/responsibilities</li> <li>Project scope</li> <li>Budget</li> <li>Timeline</li> <li>Deliverables</li> <li>Communication method</li> </ul> |  |
| Cutline a clear communication plan for the project or team  End with clear next steps for the project or time frame (month, quarter, or year)  1-2 hours after the meeting  Send out a recording of the event along with notes and any follow-up meeting dates  Open lines of communication for any follow-up conversations or offer lunch or refreshments and mingling to discuss the kickoff. This is when your team will be the most fired up and can be a creative time that's productive to harness.  1-2 weeks after the meeting  Follow up with meeting attendees via email, small group sessions, or video conferencing to review goals and timelines  |   |  |
| End with clear next steps for the project or time frame (month, quarter, or year)  1-2 hours after the meeting  Send out a recording of the event along with notes and any follow-up meeting dates  Open lines of communication for any follow-up conversations or offer lunch or refreshments and mingling to discuss the kickoff. This is when your team will be the most fired up and can be a creative time that's productive to harness.  1-2 weeks after the meeting  Follow up with meeting attendees via email, small group sessions, or video conferencing to review goals and timelines  |   |  |
| 1-2 hours after the meeting  Send out a recording of the event along with notes and any follow-up meeting dates  Open lines of communication for any follow-up conversations or offer lunch or refreshments and mingling to discuss the kickoff. This is when your team will be the most fired up and can be a creative time that's productive to harness.  1-2 weeks after the meeting  Follow up with meeting attendees via email, small group sessions, or video conferencing to review goals and timelines   | Outline a clear communication plan for the project or team  |  |
| Send out a recording of the event along with notes and any follow-up meeting dates  Open lines of communication for any follow-up conversations or offer lunch or refreshments and mingling to discuss the kickoff. This is when your team will be the most fired up and can be a creative time that's productive to harness.  1-2 weeks after the meeting  Follow up with meeting attendees via email, small group sessions, or video conferencing to review goals and timelines  | End with clear next steps for the project or time frame (month, quarter, or year)   |  |
| Open lines of communication for any follow-up conversations or offer lunch or refreshments and mingling to discuss the kickoff. This is when your team will be the most fired up and can be a creative time that's productive to harness.  1-2 weeks after the meeting  Follow up with meeting attendees via email, small group sessions, or video conferencing to review goals and timelines  | 1-2 hours after the meeting   |  |
| mingling to discuss the kickoff. This is when your team will be the most fired up and can be a creative time that's productive to harness.  1-2 weeks after the meeting  Follow up with meeting attendees via email, small group sessions, or video conferencing to review goals and timelines   | Send out a recording of the event along with notes and any follow-up meeting dates  |  |
| Follow up with meeting attendees via email, small group sessions, or video conferencing to review goals and timelines  | mingling to discuss the kickoff. This is when your team will be the most fired up and can be a creative   |  |
| goals and timelines  | 1-2 weeks after the meeting   |  |
| Ask for feedback for future events   |   |  |
|  | Ask for feedback for future events  |  |